"Trust Texaco - as UNTiDy as they were"

Hard to believe its been 22 years since the Texaco logo graced neighbourhood gas stations in Canada. The Oil Crisis of the 70's in the US, followed by some bad Financial/Aquisition/Legal problems in the 80's, had Texaco selling assets, including Texaco Canada, which they sold to Imperial Oil in 1989.

The Chief Operating Officer of Texaco Canada, who orchestrated that move, soon retired after 37 years with the Company.

That was George Howard Agnew who joined Texaco soon after getting his B.Eng from U Manitoba.

Prior to all that, he was UNTD CHIPPAWA '53 U-1308)

He Crossed the Bar on July 15, 2008 in Calgary, at the age of 76.
