

Indonesia 2010

Three week sojourn to Bali and Lombok

Saturday, August 21st - Disaster!

We were all up early to catch the airport bus to Taoyuan, Edwards dressed in his daft "lucky shirt" got some pics of the boys starting their adventure

Airport

When it came to check-in, Edwards was told by Eva Air that his passport was full and the immigration authorities in Indonesia might not let him in. The boy panicked and despite our reassurances that he would be ok decided to go back to Taipei and try to sort something out at the British trade office...which wouldn't be open until Monday...

5pm

Calvert and I were stuck in a two hour queue waiting to clear immigration all the time wondering what Edwards's chances of getting through would have been. By the time we were called up they had had a change of shift and the new guy whisked us through with barely a glance....he would have made it!!

Later that evening

We checked into a less than salubrious establishment in downtown, overcrowded Kuta and soon Mr C. was champing at the bit for some ales. The night turned into a drunken crawl and we didn't get home till really late. Suffice to say we missed breakfast the next day and only made it onto the beach about 4pm. Now click on the Indonesia banner above to see what happened next!