

CLUB 71

EXPLORING THE WORLD OF DISNEY COLLECTIBLES

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 2007

Round and Round...

Who says a license plate has to be a rectangle? Apparently Disney doesn't feel that way, as they have released a number of oval shaped license plates. Unfortunately these license plates have not been made available to the general public for sale, but they can be found on eBay pretty regularly. These oddly shaped plates have shown up to commemorate a number of different events, and at least one was made to resemble a Disney Cast Member name tag (look at the bottom of the page!). I really think these are some of the most original license plates that Disney has produced, and I'm really hoping that they produce more of them. Once again, these are not all of the oval plates I own; I actually have plans for posts involving some of the others.

This is definitely one of those instances where Cast Members have been treated to a nice little bonus that us run of the mill Disney Nuts missed out on!

POSTED BY RYAN CROCHET AT 9:18 AM 0 COMMENTS

LABELS: CAST MEMBER ONLY, LICENSE PLATES