Meeting

Highlights

Phyllis Triolo Competition:

A revised list of rules has been prepared. Any reference to the concerto as a student's choice for performance in the competition was eliminated. Other rule changes are as follows: Rule #7

"Performance time will be held to an absolute maximum of twelve minutes."
Rule #12 "The judge's decision is based on musicianship. Point totals are used as a reference only." Please contact Pat for a

CPMTA By-laws

After reviewing a set of recommended by-laws, the group voted and approved several changes:

1. Retired members over 70 years of age may still hold office if they pay the full dues amount instead of the discounted rate.
2. Eliminate 2-term limitations for officers. (Article 4, section 2)
3. Eliminate the requirement for a vice-president.

Web-site revamping

The site will be revised in the upcoming year. Please visit now and make suggestions for effective use of the site.

www.cpmta.org. Ideas for the website were discussed:

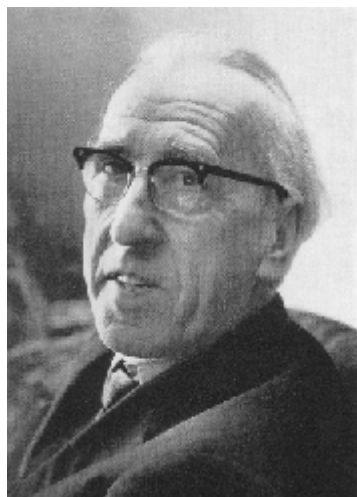

- * Listing of upcoming events
- * Phyllis Triolo competition updates and registration forms
- * Recital information
- * Send any suggestions to Linda Hoffman, yellabee@aol.com.

CPMTA recitals

Peggy Myers will host February recital; Cecelia will host May 10 recital. Deadline for submission of student information is nine days prior to the recital. Submit the following information to the host: Student's name, age, title of piece, composer, approximate level. Reminder—a fee of $5/family is due for each participant. (i.e. two students from the same family still pay a total of $5.) REMINDER: Parents and students should be aware that the host is under no obligation to honor every request for siblings to play in the same recital, or to place all participating students of one teacher in the same recital.

Barnes and Noble fundraiser

The group agreed that the idea for students to perform at the bookstore in return for a percentage of qualified purchases was a good one for CMPTA exposure, but not necessarily as a fundraiser. A fall event is being considered. Please let Mike know if you are interested in participating.
