Classroom Contract
2006-2007
Mr. Crooker

It is my hope that all material presented on your syllabus will aid you in growing in your knowledge and love of God and the Faith of the Catholic Church.

A wide assortment of theological and moral topics will be covered this school year. All parents and guardians have the right and duty to teach, in light of Gospel truth, the nature, the demands and the responsibilities of human sexuality to their children. The Catholic Church teaches that the family is the community in which one learns moral values, begins to honor God, and make good use of freedom. (Catholic Catechism #2207)

It is my responsibility to present the truths of the Faith in a clear, concise, and interesting way. But, you must do your part!

Please indicate that you have read and understand your course syllabus. You must be familiar with expectations and requirements and you must work your very best. You must also be totally knowledgeable with homework expectations and have read the syllabus for your course.
